ON GRUMBLING.

This world has its roses and thorns,
Made up both of pleasure and sorrow;
And often the saddest to-day
Is found to be joyful to-morrow:
So varied the changes we see
While twenty-four hours are gliding,
That wiser that mortal will be,
Prepared for whatever betiding.
Then halt not though rough be the ground—
They fall who are fearful of stumbling;
As hard as your lot may be found,
Did you ever know good come by grumbling?

The man who doth rise with the lark,
And seeks, like the bee, for the honey,
Finds something turn up before dark
That brings to the pocket the money.
The soil must be tilled for the grain,
The net must be cast for the fishes,
And only by striving, 'tis plain,
Will fortune fall in with our wishes.
Then halt not though rough be the ground—
They fall who are fearful of stumbling;
And hard as your lot may be found,
Did you ever know good come by grumbling?

Don't always depend on your friends,
Who fly at the tidings of sorrow,
But rather your purse touch with care,
And see that it yield for the morrow;
In fact, be a friend to yourself,
And thus by self-effort succeeding,
You soon unto others can say,
"Many thanks, but your aid I'm not needing."
Then halt not, though rough be the ground—
They fall who are fearful of stumbling;
And hard as your lot may be found,
Did you ever know good come by grumbling?

CHAPTER XVI.

Battle of May 10th—Battle of May 12th—March across Ny river—Move to our Right—Fight of our Reinforcements—March to Guinney Station—March to North Anna River—Skirmish on South Bank—Tearing up Virginia Central Railroad—Prisoners—Butler's House—March to Chesterfield Station—Forced night march to Pamunkey river—March to Hanover C. H.—Skirmish on the Talopotomy—March to Cold Harbor—Battle of June 1st—Battle of June 3d—Digging up to the Rebels—Seven days in close Quarters—Mistaken Rebels—Evacuation of Cold Harbor.

On the 23d of May, 1864, we resumed our march over narrow, muddy roads, impeded by trains, and, after one hit to draw rations, made our way successfully to the North Anna river, at Jerico Mills. There was considerable firing to our left, and some skirmishing by our advance. Next day we crossed making head quarters at a fine country seat, where we found a most extensive and valuable library, something we seldom came across. In the evening we were to make our way down the river, to form a junction with the 5th corps, who crossed below. We drove the rebel skirmishers back steadily past a house in the garden, of which we found two of them dead, and in the house a plucky young lady who would not go into the house to avoid the dangers around. She was indignant exceedingly, at our unceremonious invasion. We built some light barricades and remained here all night, finding the 5th corps, and connecting our line.

Next day we moved to the Virginia Central Railroad, and proceeded along it, tearing up the track and burning the ties, and warping the rails for some miles. We found a large piece house close to the track and emptied it. We captured a number of straggling rebels from their retreating picket line. While they were being guarded in the house of a man whose name was Butler, he began to abuse them as deserters from their cause, principally because they begged for something to eat.

We put Mr. Butler in his own house, with orders to remain there, which he was careful to do, and then took his crib of corn, all but enough to feed his folks till the next crop. We then moved back to Noel's Station, where we had first struck the Railroad. We heard this day that Gen Stuart, of the rebel Cavalry, had been killed in a fight with Sheridan.

Next morning we moved off in the midst of a heavy rain, in the direction of the river, which we reached, and marched thence to Chesterfield. A division of Cavalry passed us with a pontoon train, and we waited for some hours here. Rations were distributed, and, at eight, p. m., we began our march. We found the Railroad buildings in flames, and, passing on, marched very rapidly all night.

We reached Hanovertown, on the Pamunkey river, in the morning, a distance of twenty five miles, in one night, and found the Cavalry crossing the river. We moved over on the pontoons, and went into camp in a very pleasant place. We enjoyed the luxury of a bath in the Pamunkey river, and rested for the day. There seemed to be no enemy, nor any other of our troops near.

Next day we rejoined our corps.

On the next Sunday, the 29th of June, we had the pleasure of meeting those of our friends of the 148th who were still left.

In the afternoon we moved off to Hanover Court House, on a reconnoissance. We found and drove off some of their cavalry, capturing one solitary rebel.—We were very short of rations, and found but little in the country. We got to the Railroad, at Hanover C. H., and remained in camp all night.

Next day we moved down the Railroad, over the scene of Gen. Porter's first fight in front of Richmond, in 1862, and then to the left where we joined the 2nd corps, and, forming our lines near Talopotomy creek, went into camp. We had got a few hard tack at noon, which were highly appreciated,

On May 31, we had a fight between the opposing skirmish lines, in which Jos. C. Hess, of company C, was very severely wounded. It was thought to be a mortal hurt, but he is still alive and well.

June 1, 1864, witnessed, in its closing hours, the first assault upon Cold Harbor works. We left camp early in the morning, and marched, leisurely, all the forenoon, towards our left. We arrived at the old Cold Harbor Tavern about noon, this being the first time we had crossed our path made under McClellan in 1862. It was near the point we encamped by the mill and pond, just before reaching the Chickahominy.

Here we formed our lines, four deep, giving each brigade but one regiment front. The 49th formed the first line of our brigade. The men went to work to build some pits, and the enemy shelled at us in a leisurely way, probably to get an accurate range for their guns. Our subsequent experience convinced us that they succeeded, very well, indeed.

We were ordered to be ready to move at five o'clock precisely, upon a signal being given. As the front of our Brigade was an open field, in full view of the enemy's batteries, we were to give our troops, right and left, some distance the start, in order that, going through woods, they might strike the enemy at the same time with us. Just as we were about to move, our Brigadier General became exhausted, having failed to keep up his vigor, even by liberal stimulation. In fact, it was that which made the trouble. Having gently carried him to the rear, and left him in charge of his two personal aids, and his servants, we prepared for the fight, Lt. Col. Clark, of Philadelphia, commanding.

At five the word came, and giving our men the word, we went for the rebel rifle pits at double quick.

Our reception was warm, exceedingly. Rebel shot and shell danced over the sandy cornstalk-field in a manner more vigorous than pleasant. We went ahead, however, and, though losing men very fast, reached and captured their outer works, and attempted their main lines. We failed to penetrate them, but were not driven back, but, lying down, held all we had secured.

Our losses, as well as those on the right and left of us, were very heavy, our regiment leaving a large percentage of the already thinned ranks either killed or wounded upon the field. Maj Hickman, commanding the regiment, was slightly wounded. Capt. Wakefield severely, a tree cut off by a shell having fallen upon him. The writer was wounded, but not seriously, in the charge over the field, and Lt James P. Smith was wounded and captured in the fighting between the first and second lines in the evening. Co. C lost three men killed, and fifteen wounded, and the other companies which were smaller, in like proportions, nearly.

On the third of June, after intrenching ourselves, we were ordered to make another assault on the enemy, in company with the 2nd corps, and Smith's (18th) corps, charging at the point in front of us, as soon as they attacked. The attack was a bloody defeat to them, and we gained very little ground, but, fortunately, we had not very much loss. Two men were killed in our regiment, and several were wounded. We had a lively fight in the evening across our rifle pits, which now were but ten or twelve yards apart. I was now in command of the regiment, as all my seniors were wounded.

On the 4th of June we commenced a new line, having driven the enemy from a part of theirs. Tunnelling our own, we crawled to it, and turned it against them by digging a ditch on our side of their works. We worked away on the 5th at our ditches, covered ways and traverses, cooking, sleeping and living underground. No man could put up his head without risking its being broken; had only one man hit, however. We put our sharpshooters in the old rebel line, and gave them their compliments back effectively. Lost two men of the sharpshooters, however. In the evening two rebel officers, Lt's McAllister and Hartman, of the North Carolina troops, with six men, came to the left of our regiment, bearing a flaming torch. They were hailed, and not fired upon, because the thing was so novel the men did not know what to do. They asked permission to pass along our line to find and bury two of their officers, alleging that a truce had been agreed upon for that purpose. There had been some attempts to negotiate a truce, but it had not been agreed upon. The men ordered them inside, and they gave us our first reliable intelligence of Lt. Smith. Hartmen explained their rather ludicrous blunder, by saying, Gen. Clingman, who sent them, was drunk. We had buried one of their officers, and had the other in our hospital, wounded. We sent them to head quarters, kept them a few days to prevent their giving information, and let them go.

On the 7th we had a truce, and buried the dead between the lines. We had now extended our works until there was only the road between our hostile lines. However, we agreed to be civil, and sitting on our rifle pits, we talked to our misguided foes in the most friendly way, exchanging coffee for tobacco, newspapers and jokes. I had the Richmond Examiner, from an accommodating rebel, at 8 o'clock in the morning of June 8th. Communication was stopped by order, and we soon quarreled and fought lively—nobody hurt, at least on our side. During this time, two rebels attempted to desert to us, in the early morning, and being mistaken as to the movement, one of our men shot one of them, wounding him, mortally, it was thought. We sent them to the rear, regretting the mistake which, however, was not one not unlikely to occur under the circumstances.

June 10th, Maj. Hickman returned, and relieved me of command, and I reported back to Gen. Eustice as Brigade Inspector. Little of interest occurred next day, there being quite a lull, and on the night of the 12th of June we quietly withdrew from our lines, and commenced our march towards James river. This was the end of thirty-five days of the campaign, from the Rapidan, through the Wilderness, to Cold Harbor, and away. In all these days there was not one in which we did not hear either the firing of artillery, musketry, or both, and in nearly all of which we were more or less engaged. Of 730 men carrying muskets, less than 300 remained in line in the regiment, and of 24 officers, only three had escaped entirely, the bullets of the enemy, five of them were dead, and three prisoners, and seven only left for duty, including those whose wounds were slight. We had made up our bloody record for the Spring campaign of 1864.

INDECISION.—Thousands of young men are to day drifting helplessly about in the ocean of life, vainly hoping that erelong some favorable breeze will spring and drive their vessels into some safe harbor. Where that harbor is, they have no idea; because they have no definite object in view. They have never decided upon any course of life, but permit their actions to be shaped and moulded by the circumstances of the hour. Is it any wonder that disasters follow each other in quick succession? More men are ruined through indecision, than from a wrong decision. Few men will deliberately lay out and pursue a plan of life that will ultimately work their ruin. Most young men of the present day enter the great battle of life without any well defined system of warfare, and, consequently, spend their best days in aimless pursuits. Indecision is the bane of our existence. Could we look into the world of spirits, we would find but few souls in the dark regions of woe that had resolved to reach that goal; nearly all who are there, and those who are hastening there, are in their present condition, simply because they never decided whither they would go, and their indecision has been their ruin.

SCENE ON THE OHIO.—Our boat had stopped to take in wood. On the shore, among the crowd, was a remarkably stupid looking fellow with his hands in his pockets, and his under lip hanging down.

A dandy, ripe for a scrape, nods and winks at all around, saying:

"Now I'll have some fun. I'll frighten the greenhorn."

He jumped ashore with a large, drawn bowie knife, brandishing it in the face of the "green 'un," exclaiming:

"Now I'll punch you; I've been looking for you for a week."

The fellow stared stupidly at his assailant, he evidently did not know enough to be scared; but, as the bowie knife come near his face, one of his huge fists vacated his pocket, and fell hard and heavy between the eyes of the dandy and the poor fellow was floundering in the Ohio.

Greeny then jumped on board our boat, put his hands in his pockets, looking around, said:

"May be there's somebody else that's been looking for me for a week."

TRENTON, N. J., is on a broad grin over a huge joke which has unintentionally been perpetrated upon some of its highly respectable citizens. An enterprising colored man devised a petition to the Common Council of that city, asking for an enlargement of the schoolhouse for colored children. It occurred to him that the signatures of certain white folks might be serviceable, and he applied for and obtained a large number. The petition commences, "We, the parents of colored children!"

How do you feel with such a shocking looking coat on? said a young clerk of, some pretentions, one morning, to an old farmer. "I feel," said the old farmer, looking at him steadily, with one eye half closed, as if taking aim at his victim, "I feel, young man, as if I had a coat which has been paid for—a luxury of feeling which I think you will never experience."

A COUPLE of fellows who were pretty thoroughly soaked with bad whisky, got into the gutter. After floundering about for a few minutes, one of them said:—"Jim, let's go to another house; this hotel leaks."

"THAT'S very singular," said a young lady to a gentleman who had just kissed her. "Oh, well my dear Miss," was the reply, "I will soon make it plural."—And the villain did.

An English tradesman, tired of announcing that he is "selling off," now advertises that he is "selling on."

A Revolution in Telegraphing.

From the Baltimore American.

A complete revolution is shortly to take place in the system of telegraphing, the rapidity and cheapness of transmission enabling a reduction in the price that it will ultimately monopolize the business correspondence of the country, even if it should remain in private hands. The patentee of this new system claims the power to transmit messages ten times as rapid as an expert penman can write, and to do as much business over one wire as can be done over ten wires by the Morse system of transmission.—The rates of charges contemplated by the patentees of this new system are one cent per word for all distances, the cheapness of which could not fail to draw from the mails all business correspondence, as well as much of a private character that can not afford to wait the comparatively slow postal transmission.

We had been frequently urged by the inventor, and his friends, to visit New York, and witness the operation of the new instrument, and delayed doing so until a few weeks since, when it was thoroughly tested in our presence.

The letters transmitted were the Morse alphabet, and, what is most singular is, that the transmission is done without any knowledge, on the part of either the receiver or the sender, as to the contents of the dispatch. It is an automaton process, and requires no skilled operators, the preparing of the dispatches being done by another instrument, ten of which, presided over by girls, being required to keep one wire in steady operation. Any one, who can read manuscript, can work these instruments, as even a knowledge of the Morse alphabet is not essential. The transmitting instruments, as well as the copy machines, are worked by magnetism, and the rapidity and smoothness with which they move shows that the new motive power is essential to the success of the invention. We watched the operation in every particular, and found that our experience in telegraphing could not suggest one obstacle that had not been provided for by the ingenious and skillful inventor, who has himself had great experience in telegraphing, both in this country and in Europe.

We watched the working of the reception instrument with great interest, believing it impossible to clearly transmit letters with such rapidity. The result, however, proved that the formation of the letters was more clear and distinct than we have ever seen them by the Morse instrument, the record being made by the magnetic fluid on chemically prepared paper, the dots and dashes being as clear and distinct as if made by a pen. But even the rapidity of transmission then attained, we are assured, was not to the extent to which the inventor believed he could ultimately reach. The system of transmission is only limited by the rapidity with which the receiving and transmitting instruments can be run with safety, and the inventor is confident in the belief that from fifteen hundred to two thousand letters per minute can be transmitted, with all the correctness and clearness that the nine hundred were passed through the instruments in our presence. Those experienced in telegraphing will at once exclaim that this might be done with two instruments in the same room, but when tested over long distances, with the accompanying atmospheric retardation, a failure would be inevitable. To all such we would say that the test was over twenty-five hundred miles of wire, in the presence of several telegraphic experts, who pronounced the transmission perfect.

WHETHER time goes rapidly quite depends on the object in prospect. A young lady on her way to church to get married regards every moment as an hour; a man on his journey to be hung thinks an hour concentrated into every moment. The young chap who is waiting for an answer to his proposal, looks upon a week as an age, while the man of 85 waiting for his divorce papers believes every hour contains full five hundred minutes. A hungry man, half an hour before dinner, thinks it will never come, and a dyspeptic wishes time stood a whole day. So it goes, or don't go, according to the individual case in hand.

"I WISH I had your head," said a young lady, one day, to a gentleman who had solved for her a knotty point.

"And I wish I had your heart," was the reply.

"Well," said she, "since your head and my heart can

BELLEFONTE REPUBLICAN.

W. W. BROWN, A. B. HUTCHISON, } Editors.

Terms $2 Per Annum in Advance.

BELLEFONTE, PA.,

Wednesday Morning, Oct. 27, 1869.

ADVERTISING.—The BELLEFONTE REPUBLICAN has a larger circulation than any other Republican paper published in the county. Our merchants and business men will please make a note of this.

Fair Play.

It is our disposition to get along smoothly with our neighbors and all with whom our business associations may bring us in contact; but we learned with sorrow, this morning, that a young man representing himself as an agent for the Bellefonte National, was engaged in circulating through the country that we had sold out, or were about selling out the Bellefonte REPUBLICAN, to the Proprietors of the National, consequently the REPUBLICAN would be merged in that paper in a few weeks. We do not, of course, insinuate that the young man referred to, is circulating this story at the instance of those interested in the National office, and only mention it here to inform our friends that the whole story is a base fabrication, and can be circulated only for the purpose of injuring the REPUBLICAN and its Editors.

The Editors of this paper proposed to buy the National office last August, but for some reason it was sold to Mr. Gould and not to us. Of course the men who owned that paper had a right to dispose of it to whom they pleased, and upon such terms as they might deem proper. To their action we never objected. Nor do we yet feel disposed to meddle with them in any particular. But we do protest against agents, or supposed agents, or "any other man," circulating stories to injure our business or our paper.

We commenced the publication of the REPUBLICAN, January, 6th, 1869, we have, therefore, been in existence but ten months. In that short space of time, we do not say it boastingly, we have added to our list of bona fide subscribers, nearly sixteen hundred names. From this fact alone, we infer that it suits the people. We feel proud of the support we have received from the people. We have faith to believe that the good and staunch Republicans of Centre county will continue to patronize us fully and liberally so long as we continue to print and supply them with a live paper.

We will not stand in the way of a consolidation of the two papers; but we want to have some say in the matter. Till then we request our patrons and friends not to listen to such stories as above referred to.

THE Pennsvalley Democracy did not do their duty—we mean those who staid at home on account of the rain, the State being close, those negligent Democrats may be the cause of Packer's defeat.—Centre Hall Reporter.

There is no use in growling, Fred. The Pennsvalley Democracy are not caring much about you. They have given us the measure of your influence.—They have shown you, as well as Peter G., that they have manhood enough left to resist the tyranny of the Court House Ring. Look at the result in Potter township. Mark well the influence of Col Love and his independent friends. You said Col. Love had no influence. What have you to say now? There are two hundred independent Democrats in Pennsvalley just like Col. Love.

They believe they did do their duty. They struck at the tyranny and corruption of the "Ring." They did not stay at home on account of the rain. They stayed at home to show their contempt for J. G. Meyer and the entire ticket of the Ring.

Next fall they will not stay at home; but will go to the election and vote the whole Republican ticket. They will hereafter vote with the party that saved the Government—the Nation and the old flag.

"Staid at home on account of the rain," forsooth!! No, those Democrats who did not go to the election and vote for Coburn and Cadwallader, "staid at home" to show their contempt of you, the Ring, and the whole ticket.

What are you going to do about it, Fred?

INTEREST ON THE PUBLIC DEBT.—On the 1st of November next $25,486,000 in coin will be required from the Treasury to pay the semi-annual instalment of interest on the 5-20 bonds falling due at that date. Secretary Boutwell now has on hand about $84,000,000 in coin, and about $28,000,000 in coin bearing certificates, besides about $8,000,000 in currency. After the payment of the draft required for the interest, over $58,000,000 in coin will remain on hand, and no more will be required for the payment of interest until the first of January next.—Telegraph.

VERMONT has ratified the Fifteenth Amendment. The vote was unanimous in the Senate, with twelve negatives in the House. The great measure by every new expression of the people gains strength, and its consummation is little less than absolutely certain.

WE published the returns of the election in the county, last week, but they were not correct. We will give the corrections next week.

Trouble Among the Snakes.

The October frosts always prove too much for the reptile species. They cling to life with the most rigid tenacity, but nevertheless they are so constituted as not to endure the biting autumnal frosts, and to but half live while they do live, and only to live half the time even at that. We presume it is a punishment inflicted upon them for the part they took in the garden of Eden, in their base betrayal of the early inhabitants of that delightful place. They have been snakey ever since. Have always opposed progress, justice and liberty, and shunned the haunts of intelligent christian people.

The copperhead species are, by our natural historians, considered the most poisono us species. A species that inflicts its poisonous fangs into the veins of its victim without any noise or warning whatever. For this reason they are hated by the entire human family. Some times when the frost first commences to nip them, they, in their life and death struggle, get up a war among themselves which often threatens the total extermination of the entire species. Such a war has commenced among them since the heavy frost on the 12th inst.

The copperhead of the Watchman den has been sorely nipped and is full of fight. See how he wriggles. Behold how he ejects his poisonous venom:

"But if, on the other hand, Mr. "Packer has been fairly elected, and "we believe he has, then the Demo- "cratic party of Pennsylvania ought "to see that he is inaugurated, IF IT "TAKES EVERY ABLE BODIED DEMO- "CRAT IN THE STATE TO DO IT."

How much this sounds like the noise and bluster of the rebel Calhoun snakes during the last six months of James Buchanan's Administration.—What became of these blustering reptiles is too familiar with our readers to need repetition here. Their inglorious fate should be a warning to all latter day reptiles. War is not their occupation (i'e) open, manly war. They strike the guerrilla—the coward blow. The latter day snakes, however, are not to be feared, their poison-fangs having been extracted. We rather think the triumphant, glorious Geary, will be inaugurated.

The huge snake of the Altoona Vindicator, with a little more judgment and sense than the Watchman reptile, is not so much in favor of "buckshot" wars, as domestic or family quarrels. He, true to his snakeish instincts, has made war upon his fellows. Our readers will remember the editorial we copied from the Vindicator before the election, and which gave such a decided set-back to Democratic enthusiasm in the State.

In another article since the election he glories over the fulfillment of all the predictions made in that article, and now places the condemnation upon the necks of the copperhead leaders of the party.

He has too much sense to talk of FRAUD and WAR; but, like a true prophet, after declaring that defeat resulted from mis-management on the part of the snakes in Philabelphia, he declares:

"PACKER PARASITES.

Judge Packer was surrounded by a horde of unscrupulous political desperadoes, whose only desire was to fill their own pockets at his expense, and then basely betray the man who had confided in their honor. We know whereof we affirm when we state that the base wretches who managed the Philadelphia campaign never did one hour of honest work for Asa Packer. They secured his confidence—they kept his true friends away from him they plundered him, and then defeated him. If we compare the returns of that portion of the State which was under the control of Mr. Mutchler with that which was under the supervision of the sub chairmen, it will be seen that he was incompetent to fulfill the duties of the position. He was an obscure man, with no ability and no energy, and he accomplished nothing. In a word the whole campaign was a blunder and a fraud, and the result was accordingly.

"A SUCCESSION OF FRIGHTFUL BLUNDERS."

But the defeat of Asa Packer would be of small moment if it did not involve the defeat of those sacred doctrines for which the Democracy has been contending ever since the foundation of the Government. And it is because of this that we deplore the mismanagement which led to our defeat. Because of this, we denounce the would-be leaders who have piloted the bark upon the rocks. If this last, most perilous overthrow of Democracy shall have the effect of inspiring our party with more wisdom, we shall never regret it. For the last eight years our whole history has been a succession of frightful blunders, and nothing but the undying vitality of our principles could have saved the party from extinction. Let it be understood that a new leaf must be turned if we should hope for victory in the future. The noblest principles in the hands of incompetent or corrupt individuals cannot receive popular approval. He who aspires to direct a great political contest should have brains enough to organize the campaign and bravery sufficient to lead the battle.

We will have more to say hereafter on this subject. In the meantime we sincerely pray for the total extirpation of the whole copperhead species. We suggest that it be done by the entire species swallowing itself.

THE PUBLIC DEBT.—The receipts from customs and internal revenue thus far during this month have not been as large as the corresponding time last month, and it is thought by the Treasury officials that totals at the end of the month will show a decrease from both courses. The expenditures this month, however, have not been very heavy, and the public debt statement, to be issued on the first proximo, will show a considerable decrease in the total.

To Workingmen.

Now that the smoke of battle has cleared away, and the result in Pennsylvania Ohio and Iowa, fully known, it may be well to inquire into the causes which lead to such glorious Republican triumphs, and the constant humiliating defeats of the so-called Democracy. The campaign for 1869 has closed, but the great contest between freedom and slavery is not yet ended. Much has been gained by the workingmen of the country through the Republican party. They have much more to gain.

The Toledo Blade, in speaking on his subject, says:

"The men who depend on the labor of their hands or brains to maintain the struggle for life should not be idle in this contest, for the great struggle on behalf of the rights and dignity of labor is not yet ended. The Democracy, falsely so-called, has made many blatant professions, about election times, of sympathy for the workers of the land, but the aristocrats of the east and of the south—the confederacy of the cotton lords of the eastern cities and the plantation-owners of the south always controlled its policy in Congress and in the administration of the government. Once in power the working man was forgotten that the rich merchants and traders of the North and the planters of the South might exercise all the influence of the goverment in their own interest.

The Republican party has had control of the government since 1860. For a longer period it has controlled the legislation of many of the States where laborers have been the most numerous In what State, we ask, have Republicans failed to respond favorably to the demands of the working population? Has not the condition of the working men in every Republican State been improving and prosperous? The Republicans have given the workers of the country a right to free homes on the public lands; they have secured homestead exemption for the unfortunate debtor; imprisonment for debt is now unknown in any Republican State. The Republican party has saved the new lands of the great West for free labor, which the South would have saved for the exclusive benefit and occupancy of the lords of the lash. In this an important gain was made for free men and free laborers for every acre given to slave labor was that much detained from the free cultivators of the soil, who had the best right to it. But the great boon of the party to honest labor was the overturning of that out growth of barbarous ages, human slavery, which degraded and oppressed the free laborers of every land it was allowed to enter. Servitude and degradation were identical; Labor was the badge and indication of servitude. The freeman compelled to work for a livlihood in a land where slavery existed was of necessity placed with the servile class. Every man compelled to labor was socially placed on a level no higher than that of slaves. No free man would labor under such a load of proscription and disgrace, if he could avoid it. He who did thus labor was made to feel as if the brand of a servile condition were placed on his brow. By the power of the Republican party no limitations are now placed on labor anywhere. All labor is now free and honorable. The worker is legally the peer and compeer of his employer. By the policy of the Republican party every laborer, of every sort, will have the ballot wherewith to guard the dignity and rights of his class. In securing this it has had a long and fierce hand to hand contest with the false Democracy. This fight is not through with yet. We call upon every worker to come up to our help in this contest that the nails we have driven for the defence and support of our liberties may be clinched securely and forever.

It is easy to brawl about eight hour laws and other temporary measures of a merely incidental character, which are but little regarded when enacted, but the work this young, vigorous party has done for free labor has reached vital and pervading principles. It has ground monopolies and aristocracies to powder, and put the royal, governing scepter into the hands of honest labor. It therefore claims the support of all working men.

THE Watchman crows especially over the defeat of Jerre. Butts. Jerre. was, of course, defeated; but we call the attention of our readers to the magnificent vote he received in this borough. Where he was best known, he received the largest vote. He has lived in this borough for fifteen years. Gov. Geary received but 72 majority in the borough; Jerre. Butts received a majority of 99. Can the friends of Woodring say as much for him? Although defeated, Jerre. Butts is trump. Where he was best known, he run the best. Could anything more be said in any man's favor? Long live Jerre. Butts.

Meadville is to have a Public Park. Rev. F. Huidekoper last week presented the city a plot of ground about three hundred and fifty feet square, in the lower part of the city, fronting on Water and Poplar streets, to be fitted up for that purpose. The City Council have accepted the generous donation, and the park is a fixed fact.

PROCLAMATION OF THE PRESIDENT—NOVEMBER 18TH TO BE OBSERVED.

By the President of the United States of America—Proclamation.

The year which is drawing to a close has been free from pestilence. Health has prevailed throughout the country; abundant crops rewarded the labor of the husbandman; commerce and manufactures have successfully prosecuted their paths; mines and forests have yielded liberally; the nation has increased in wealth and in strength; peace has prevailed, and its blessings have advanced every interest of the people in every part of the Union; harmony and fraternal interest restored are obliterating the marks of past conflict and estrangement; burdens have been lightened, means have been increased; civil and religious liberty are secured to every inhabitant of this land, whose soil is trod by none but freemen. It becomes a people thus favored to make acknowledgment to the Supreme Author, from whom such blessings flow, of their gratitude and their dependence, to render praise and thanksgiving for the same, and devoutly to implore a continuance of God's mercy. Therefore, I, Ulysses S. Grant, President of the United States, do recommend that Thursday, the eighteenth (18th) day of November, be observed as a day of thanksgiving and prayer to Almighty God, the Creator and Ruler of the Universe; and I do further recommend to all the people of the United States to assemble on that day in their accustomed places of worship, and to unite in the honor and praise due to the bountiful Father of all mercies, and in fervent prayer for the continuance of the manifold blessings He has vouchsafed to us as a people.

In testimony whereof I have hereunto set my hand, and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed, this fifth day of October, A. D. 1869, and of the independence of the United States of America the ninety fourth.

U. S GRANT.

Letter From Utah.

GREAT SALT LAKE CITY, UTAH TERRITORY, Sept. 10th, 1869.

EDS. REPUBLICAN:—For the past fourteen days your correspondent has been wandering through the land of Mormondom, wherein dwell a nation of people debased of virtue, character, morality and conscience; a nation of licentious brutes and harlots, where the rising generation is one of bastards, and whose religion is the endowment, blood atonement, Enoch and Adam worship—with Brigham Young as their mediator and co-equal with the Lord. Presuming that a majority of your readers have read enough of Brigham Young and his Great Salt Lake City, we will devote our time to a description of Southern Utah and the Josephite Mormons.

When Brigham Young was proclaimed as President or successor to Joseph Smith, the followers of the last seceded, refusing to pay tithing, or to countenance polygamy. This course of the Josphites led to their banishment from Salt Lake; the massacre of one-third of them at Mountain Meadows, and finally to their exile from Utah.

Three hundred miles south of Salt Lake the Josephites formed their settlements in Red Lake region, among the little vallies bordering the Great Sevier River. Here, fondly believing their hardships and persecutions at an end, they built beautiful villages, and their orchards, vineyards and green fields began to dot the landscape, before so dreary and barren; but Brigham's wrath followed them, and his Indian emissaries found but little trouble in driving them over the boundaries of Utah, as most of them were dames who hardly knew how to load a gun, and in many contests were routed by one-tenth their number. As we wandered through their silent villages and noted the well made houses, long avenues lined with fruit-bearing shade trees, and brimed on the sides with clear rippling brooks, a feeling akin to awe pervaded us and these silent streets filled with high grown weeds, and the crumbling walls of the neglected gardens seemed to tell a sad story of a people fallen by a deadly pestilence, instead of the "seed of Joseph" fleeing before their brethren the "Lamanites."

From Montana via Idaho to Utah, our ride was through a country abounding in a diversity of scenery beautiful and picturesque enough to awaken the enthusiasm of the most exacting tourist, the grandest and most notable of which are the canyon and River of Portneuf. At the head of Portneuf canyon, we ascended a mound four hundred feet in heigth and a scene of wonderful beauty and grandeur lay below. We counted seven mounds apparently differing none from the one upon which we stood, the river separated above each, making minature island promontories of them, and after tumbling over even level rocks its waters united again, giving a continuation in fifteen miles of eight mounds and sixteen cascades, whose rushing waters timed in a weird and wondrous melody. From thence South for several hundred miles the country presents the same appearance as portions North and eastward, described in our first letter, with the exception that the Alkali impregnates a succession of large hills so strongly that they are called "Soap Mountains," the clay for washing purposes making a very good substitute for soap.

By the recent examinations of some mounds in Salt Lake Valley, a great many curious relics have been brought to light, consisting of arrow heads, of flint, rock crystal, obsidian (of volcanic origin), cornelian and agate, fragments of glazed and unglazed pottery in abundance, stone mortars for making flour, also stone knives and petrified bones ornamented by curious carvings. In other parts of the valley we were able to trace the outlines of a large fortress or entrenchment having four bastions at the corners. At another place are visible the channel of a canal and numberless reservoirs, the latter doubtless for irrigating their crops, and the canal to fill them from some river that has changed in course in the long lapse of time since then, and where it once flowed, perhaps the mountains stand. We have reason to judge from the mounds containing such quantities of charred human bones, that they were a race of people who burned their dead, but we confess so limited a knowledge of Archæology as to be unable to tell their race or color, and like those who exhumed the relics, we await tradition's story of how a mighty people arose, flourished and fell on this continent during that age of Europe, when the nations grasped in the darkness of ignorance, and reason shone but in fitful glimerings like reflections of a far-off star at set of moon.

NEW CHANGE IN AN OLD FIRM.
The undersigned adopts this method of informing his numerous friends and customers, that he has made arrangements to settle up the old books, and commence in the new. For thirty years I have done business in Bellefonte. I have for the whole of that time been one of the most extensive grain dealers in the place. I have always taken especial pains to accommodate my customers. I have always sold as good and as cheap goods as any other mercantile house in town, and it is my intention to continue to do so, but have added the name of my son W. S. WAGNER to the firm. Hereafter, or from the 13th inst., the business will be conducted in the firm name of
D. M. WAGNER AND SON.
I will increase the stock, will continue to buy grain, and to accomodate customers in every possible way. I invite all my old customers to continue with us and hope that the people of Centre, Clearfield and adjoining counties will find it to their advantage to deal with us.
D. M. WAGNER

We will in a few days receive from Phil'a and New York, the largest and best stock, and we may add, cheapest stock of Goods ever offered in Bellefonte. Our stock will be large and it is our intention to add to it from time to time. Every thing wanted by heads of families, farmers or others, will be found in our HOUSE. We are not only enlarging our stock but we have enlarged the STORE ROOM. Our store with the New room, will extend back 110 feet—shelved on both sides and constantly filled with the best of goods.
We most respectfully invite the people of Centre and adjoining counties to favor us with a call, and with their trade.
The highest market price will be paid for wheat and all other kinds of grain IN CASH. Country produce taken at the highest prices in exchange for goods

JOB WORK.—Posters, Circulars, Bill Heads, Cards, Paper Books, Job Work of all kinds, neatly executed at the REPUBLICAN OFFICE, at reasonable rates.

NOTICE TO BUILDERS.—Howell, Gilliland & Co., keep constantly on hand, the Ardell Shingles, Nos. 1, 2 and 3, at the lowest price for cash or produce.

SAVE MONEY.—If you want posters, circulars, bill heads, cards, paper-books, first-class job work, plain or fancy, call at the REPUBLICAN office. All work done at Philadelphia prices.

RE-OPENED.—Loeb, May & Loeb have re-opened in Butt's new building, directly opposite their old stand, where they will be pleased to meet their old customers. Parties desiring cheap goods, of all descriptions, will find them among their rescued stock from the late fire.

TOBACCO STORE.—Our enterprising friend C. T. Fryberger continues to sell the very best brands of tobacco, snuff and segars, at his old stand, in the Conrad House, Allegheny St., opposite the Brockerhoff House. Capt. Fryberger understands his business, and takes great pleasure in accommodating his customers, and all who may favor him with a call. We wish him success.

ENTERPRISE.—J. B. Butts and Levi A. Miller purchased, last week, at Sheriff's sale, the entire stock of goods formerly owned by Mr. C. Derr. They are now selling off the entire lot, at cost, at the old stand of Mr. Derr, in Bush's Arcade, High St. We wish them success, and hope the people will avail themselves of this opportunity to purchase all they need, good and cheap.

DISSOLUTION.—We invite the attention of our readers to the notice of Howell, Gilliland & Co., in another column of the REPUBLICAN. It will be seen that the partnership heretofore existing between those men has been dissolved.—We understand that Mr. Howell intends moving to Jersey Shore, and that Mr. Gilliland will sell off the entire stock of goods at the old stand, at cost. Look out for cheap goods and great bargains.

THE season for new goods having arrived, our people are looking about to see where they can find the best stocks from which to secure their supplies for the winter. We have not seen a finer stock of fall and winter goods than that now on the shelves and counters of Geo. D. Pifer's large store, under the Brockerhoff House. As prices with him are now lower than they have been for years, especially in groceries, boots and shoes, and are likely to advance before Spring, we advise our readers to call on Pifer without delay.

FIRE.—It is with sorrow we chronicle the fact of the burning of the barn, on Tuesday night, the 19th inst. belonging to our worthy friend, John M. Wagner, near Milesburg. We have not learned how the fire originated, but it is supposed to have been the work of an incendiary. The entire crop of wheat, oats, hay, &c., together with eight cows, seven head of horses, a lot of farming utensils and harness were destroyed.—We have not learned whether Mr. Wagner's loss is covered by insurance. We sincerely hope it is. Every property-holder should make it a point to have his property insured in some good company. Then, if accident, or the heartless incendiary brings ruin, disaster and loss, the community aids in bearing the burden.

Since the above was in type, we learn that Mr. Wagner's property was insured in the sum of $2000, which is very fortunate for the gentleman, but it will not quite cover one-third of his actual loss.

STILL ANOTHER.—It has often been said: "when fires commence there is no telling when or where they will stop." This has been demonstrated, at least, in the history of Bellefonte, since the last issue of the REPUBLICAN. Last week we had just room to announce that the dwelling-house of our old friend Jas. D. Turner, together with Loeb, May & Loeb's store, in the same building, was destroyed by fire. We have since learned that Mr. Turner was insured to the amount of $5,500.

Now it is our painful duty to announce that, on Friday last, the 22nd inst., at about 12 o'clock, M., the alarm of fire was heard on our streets, and we soon learned that it was in the kitchen of the Farmers Hotel, on Bishop street, Michael Howard, Proprietor. The fire spread with amazing rapidity. For a few moments it appeared as though all the South side of Bishop street was destined to be consumed by the destroying element. On the West of Mr. Howard's Hotel was the dwelling and wholesale liquor store of Mr. Jacob Ettelle, and adjoining him was the dwelling of our friend Cyrus Strickland. On the East, and adjoining Mr. Howard's Hotel, was the lager beer saloon of Patrick Brown, and another small building occupied as a shoemaker shop, and immediately adjoining these, on the East, was the Hotel known as "Our House," owned by Mr. Edward Brown, but kept by Wm. Brown. In a few minutes—indeed, in less time than it takes to pen these facts, all of the above buildings were in flames. To add to the general alarm, and the almost universal panic that prevailed, some excited and unthinking individual announced, at the top of his voice—"The engine is broke and the water play'd out!"

At this announcement, our most stupid and well balanced citizens appeared to lose their better judgment, and, without calculation or reason, commenced carrying the furniture out of all the above named dwellings. Pillows were carried down stairs, and wash bowls, pitchers and looking glasses pitched out of the second-story windows. Mr. Wm. Brown, Mr. Ettelle, Mr. Cyrus Strickland and Mr. Howard all found good friends ready and willing to aid in carrying out their furniture, and saving their property.

Fortunately, the water was not "play'd out," and the devouring element was checked, but not until the house of Michael Howard, the shops adjoining, and "Our House" were so completely ruined as to be past repair. We have not been able to learn the amount of the losses.

Edward Brown was insured in the Lycoming Mutual for $2,000.

Wm. Brown's furniture insured in the Farmers mutual for $1000.

Michael Howard's building was insured in Farmers Mutual for $1000; also $1000 in Girard Insurance Co., of Philadelphia. He also had an insurance upon his furniture of $600 in the Guardian Co., Philadelphia.

Mr. Ettelle was insured, and we understand his damages were assessed at $350 on his building, to say nothing of the stock.

RECREATION is a necessity to human nature, and physical exercise is especially beneficial to men of sedentary habits. We have in Bellefonte a resort that admirably supplies both these wants—Jno. G. Kurtz, Esq., has fitted up a Ten Pin Alley in the office formerly used as the Central Press office, where our students, lawyers, doctors, mechanics, and a host of others are daily to be found indulging in this beautiful game. The alleys are pronounced very superior by those who understand such things.

Mr. Kurtz's enterprise has been a success, as it deserves to be, from the fact that he maintains perfect order, and allows no profanity or vulgarity about his place. Go and see how many of the pins you can upset.

DR. SAGE'S CATARRH REMEDY is used and recommended by educated and eminent physicians. Read the following:

CORRY, PA., Nov. 6th, 1867.

Dr. Sage & Co., Buffalo, N. Y.,

Gentlemen—I have used your Catarrh Remedy in several very obstinate and severe cases of Catarrh that I have successfully treated. I find it gives universal satisfaction, and I can highly recommend it to the afflicted. I want some of it for my own practice. What are your terms per doz? Answer and oblige.

Very Respectfully,
J. ETHAN ALLEN, M. D.

The above Remedy is sent by mail on receipt of sixty cents. Address the proprietor, DR. R. V. PIERCE, Buffalo, N. Y. It is for sale by most Druggists everywhere.

A WORD FOR LOCAL NEWSPAPERS.—We take the following from the N. Y. Tribune. It is true, and we commend it to every one who has an interest in the place where he resides:

"Nothing is more common than to hear people talk of what they pay for advertising, &c., as so much given in charity. Newspapers by enhancing the value of their property in the neighborhood, and giving the localities in which they are published a reputation abroad, benefit all such, particularly if they are merchants or real estate owners, thrice the amount yearly of their meagre sum they pay for their support. Beside, every public spirited citizen has a laudable pride in having a paper of which he is not ashamed, even though he should pick it up in New York or Washington.

"A good looking, thriving sheet helps property, gives a character to locality, and is in many respects a desirable public convenience. If, from any cause, the matter in the local or editorial column should not be to your standard, do not cast it aside, and pronounce it good for nothing, until satisfied that there has been no more labor bestowed upon it than is paid for. If you want a good, readable sheet, it must be supported.—And it must not be supported in a spirit of charity either, but because you feel a necessity to support it. The local press is the power that moves the people."

INTEREST CALCULATIONS.—In one of our exchanges we noticed a new rule for the calculation of interest. We cannot say that we have ever seen a new rule for the calculation of interest since we went to school. All the new rules are but the old principle in a new dress.—For the information of our Juvenile readers who are laboring over the rules every day without understanding what they are doing, we will give them the principal.

Interest at 6 per cent. is just ½ cent on each dollar for one month, and as months are usually counted as having 30 days in them, the interest, then, for one dollar, for one day, is one-sixtieth of one cent, or the one-thirtieth of one half cent.—Then, of course, the interest of any number of days would be as many sixtieths as days. This fraction is often reduced to a decimal by dividing the days by sixty. This decimal is what business men call the per cent, per the days; i. e., suppose there are 18 days, or eighteen-sixtieths, by making a decimal of the eighteen-sixtieths, we have three tenths, or three mills on the dollar. Any number of days may be reduced to a decimal, and by multiplying the principal by the decimal, or percentage, the result will be the same as if the principal had been multiplied by the number of days, and divided by sixty. As an example, say the time is one year, four months and twelve days. Then half the months in the time are eight, or rather, it is eight per cent. per sixteen months; and for the twelve days, as explained above, the rate per cent. is two mills. Then the per cent. on each dollar for the time above stated is eight and two-tenths.

If it is kept in mind that the interest on one dollar for one month is one half of one cent, and that the interest for one day is one sixtieth of one cent, there need be no further necessity of rules.—If the interest is more than six per cent., add one sixth for every cent more to the calculation at 6 per cent; if less than 6 per cent., deduct one-sixth for every cent. less.

Any one with an ordinary education in Arithmetic may become proficient in calculating interest by exercising a little thought. To avoid mistakes, and save time, banks usually refer to interest tables which have been made out with great care.

AUTUMN'S truly a delightful season, and even more especially so in a woodland region like our own, when the gorgeous coloring which nature has flung over our hills and forests glows with a beauty and vividness no where surpassed, and the pure, crisp air which blows from our mountains enlivens the spirit, and invigorates the frame like draughts of generous wine. This is also the season for the sportsman. Now the quail pipes from the stubble, the pheasant drums upon the mountain side, the squirrel chatters from the lofty hickory, and the plash of the wild duck is heard along the sedgy pool. We were led to these reflections by examining the immense stock of sportsmens' materials at the store of Burnside & Thomas, in the greatest variety, and of the best qualities and workmanship. These were all selected by Mr. B., who is a thorough sportsman himself, and, therefore, fully cognizant of the wants of such in this vicinity.

Y. M. C. A. CONVENTION.—We have received a circular issued by the Young Men's Christian Association of Williamsport, extending the hospitalities of their city to delegates attending the Y. M. C. A. State Convention at that place, Nov. 2d, a notice of which we published some time ago. The Committee have made arrangements with the Pennsylvania Railroad, and all its branches, Philadelphia & Erie, and most other roads in the State to return delegates free, on certificate of the officers of the Convention.

The opening meeting will be held Tuesday afternoon, a meeting of welcome in the evening, and the farewell meeting on Thursday evening. The topics for discussion are:

1st. What is the special work for which Young Men's Christian Associations have been called into existence?

2nd. What means for mental improvement, actually tried, have been most effectual in attracting young men to the rooms of the Association and under its influences?

3d. What means shall be used by the Associations to improve the religious and social condition of young men?

4th. What is our duty toward the casual visitors at our rooms, and how can it best be performed?

5th. What is the work for Associations in smaller towns, and in the country, and how best carried on?

6th. The opportunities afforded by the Association, for Ministers of the Gospel to embrace in the service of the Master? It is also suggested that in connection with the closing service of the last evening, the topic be "Personal Consecration to Christ."

Accompanying it is an earnest appeal from Mr. Cree, Chairman of the State Executive Committee, addressed to pastors, in which he says: "We think it particularly desirous that a Young Men's Christian Association be organized amongst you, as an auxiliary to the Church, and for that purpose would ask you to consult with other pastors in furtherance of this end. So thoroughly are our Associations known to be merely an arm of the Church, when they are understood, that we are certain you will gladly avail yourself of their instrumentality. Will you not assist us in securing delegates to the Convention, and in taking steps to interest your young men in the Master's work, through the agency of the Young Men's Christian Association?

Pittsburg delegates will leave at 7:20, Monday evening, going through via Tyrone, and by special train from Lock Haven. Other delegates are invited to join them.

RE-UNION EXERCISES.—According to previous notice, the citizens of Reberrsburg, and many others, assembled in the United Brethren church, in Rebersburg, on Wednesday eve., Oct. 6, 1869, to witness the closing exercises of the Centre County Normal Institute. The following was the order of exercises:

Music. Prayer, Rev. W. G. Engle. Salutatory. Oration. H. O. Kline, Bellefonte. Music. Oration—United Effort, C. B. Hess, Philipsburg. Music. Essay—Fashions, Jennie H. McCormick, Centre Hall. Music. Oration—Prosperity of America, J. A. Runkle, Centre Hill. Music. Oration—Re-union, J. H. Chatham, McElhattan. Music. Essay—Music, Beckie F. Canon, Port Matilda. Music. Eulogy—Lafayette, J. A. Weaver, Pinegrove. Music. Oration. Education, J. H. Zeigler, Rebersburg. Music. Extemporaneous speech, Prof. T. J. Smull, Hamburg. Music. Valedictory Oration, Thos. M. Weaver, Bellefonte—Music. Benediction, Rev. W. G. Engle.

The musical talent of the school is very good. Part of the singing was done by the school, and a part by a glee club in the school. The Rebersburg String Band furnished music which was very enlivening and entertaining to the audience.

The first speaker, Mr. H. O. Kline, in an appropriate address, welcomed the faculty, and the citizens, to the exercises.

Mr. C. B. Hess' oration was gramatically constructed, well composed, and, in consequence of it being well committed, was very well spoken. It must have made an ineffaceable impression on the minds of his hearers.

Miss Jennie H. McCormick followed with a beautifully composed essay on fashions, in which she lampooned the extremes of paying too much attention to them on the one hand, and on the other, of paying too little.

Mr. J. A. Runkle's oration portrayed, in elegant language that, though we were at one time a small nation, we have grown to an enormous size, and an ever appreciative bulk of wealth and intelligence.

Mr. J. A. Chatham then spoke, and, in glowing terms, briefly, but pointedly, did he show the origin and progress of each society connected with the school.

Miss. Beckie F. Canon read an essay on music. She spoke of its influence upon the human mind—dispersing weariness, and substituting in stead, joyousness and mirth, especially so in the army. She also spoke of the connection it bears with religion. The construction of it reflected great credit on the lady.

Lafayette found a warm friend in the person of Mr. J. A. Weaver, who eulogized, and, in forcible and empathic language recounted his deeds and handled his virtues.

Mr. J. H. Zeigler then delivered an oration on education, and its effects morally, socially and politically. He demonstrated in plain, philosophical language, that it was the abuse and not the use of education that made knaves and fools. He proved, beyond doubt, the great importance and advantage of a practical education.

Our friend, and eloquent humorist, Prof. T. J. Smull, showed some of his talent in extemporaneous speaking. During his talk, the house was in a perfect uproar with laughter.

The valedictory was delivered by Mr. Thos. M. Weaver. The oration reflected great credit upon the gentleman, and his composition was such as to enable him to command the attention of the audience. It fully pictured the sadness in parting to meet no more.

After the announcement of the benediction, the audience slowly and reluctantly dispersed.

Taking all in all, it was a grand success, and will long be remembered by the students.

PHILO.

CHANGE! CHANGE!—Jerry Butts has sold his new property on Allegheny St., to Loeb, May & Loeb, for $9,000, and Levi A. Miller & Co. have bought out Capt. M. Runkle, and purpose selling at the old stand of Capt. Runkle, the very best of tobacco, snuff and segars; also all kinds of groceries, the very best and cheapest. Capt. Runkle retires from business, and calls upon all his old friends and customers to settle up without delay. His successors, Levi A. Miller & Co., will open up one of the best and cheapest grocery stores ever opened in this town. We have not room to say more this week; but we say to our subscribers, look to your interests.

CABBAGE.—Persons wishing to buy good cabbage, at ten cents per head, can be supplied by calling upon, or addressing the Editors of the BELLEFONTE REPUBLICAN. The offer is open for one week only. 1t.

IN BROCKERHOFF'S NEW BLOCK

BISHOP ST., BELLEFONTE, PA.

The undersigned take pleasure in announcing to the citizens of Bellefonte—Centre, Clinton and Clearfield counties in general, that they have just opened their New Drug Store for the accommodation of the public, and they hereby extend a cordial invitation to all who may be in need and wish to obtain Fresh, PURE AND GENUINE MEDICINES, CHEMICALS, DRUGS & all such articles as are kept in a FIRST CLASS DRUG STORE, lately selected with great care in the cities of N. York and Philadelphia, by the Senior partner of the establishment, who has had over 30 yrs experience in the art. The German Language spoken, read and written here, as well as the English Tongue, hence Physician's prescriptions will be accurately and carefully compounded, in either Language, and at all hours during the day or night. We modestly and kindly ask for a liberal share of public favor and patronage. We make no attempt to enumerate the articles kept in our establishment, since such enumeration would take up the greatest space of a newspaper. We would merely say here that our SELECTION & ASSORTMENT is well nigh complete. Come and judge for yourselves. Besides the regular DRUGS, MEDICINES & CHEMICALS, we have a fine lot of FANCY GOODS, such as

EXTRACTS AND PERFUMES

For Ladies; POCKET CUTLERY, BIRD CAGES, HANGING BASKETS, SODA FOUNTAIN WITH CREAM NECTAR, A LARGE and well selected lot of WALL PAPER and cheap at that, viz:—From Ten cents to $2.50 per Roll. GIVE US A CALL.

This INFALLIBLE REMEDY does not, like the poisonous irritating snuffs and strong caustic solutions with which the people have long been humbugged, simply palliate for a short time, or drive the disease to the lungs, as there is danger of doing in the use of such nostrums, but it produces PERFECT AND PERMANENT CURES OF THE WORST CASES OF CHRONIC CATARRH, as thousands can testify. "COLD IN THE HEAD" is cured with a few applications. CATARRHAL HEADACHE is relieved and cured as if by magic. It removes offensive Breath, Loss or Impairment of the sense of taste, smell or hearing, Watering or Weak Eyes, and Impaired Memory, when caused by the violence of Catarrh, as they all frequently are. We offer in good faith a standing reward of $500 for a case of Catarrh that we cannot cure.

COMPLETION OF THE PACIFIC RAILROAD.

GREAT RUSH TO STERNBERG'S.

Sung to the Tune of "Yankee Doodle.

The Great Pacific Railroad's laid,
From ocean unto ocean,
And now comple connection's made,—
An enterprising notion.

The mighty work at last is done,
So speedily and brisk, oh!
And now in ten days we can run
From here to San Francisco.

No more we take the ancient route,
The stage, a horrid slow thing;
It banged the passengers about,
And wore out all their clothing.

CHORUS, for the end of each verse:

The Great Pacific Railroad's laid,
From ocean unto ocean,
And we buy clothes from A. STERNBERG,
A most delightful notion.

Through passengers by the Pacific Railroad will call at the store of A. Sternberg, before starting, and provide themselves with a complete outfit of the elegant and substantial Spring and Summer Clothing, the very best assortment of which will always be found at A. Sternberg's Store.

People who travel by other routes, and also people who, instead of traveling by any route at all, prefer to stay at home, can find the most superior and seasonable garments, for every occasion, of every variety, and at the lowest prices.

Do not fail to call and examine our stock before purchasing elsewhere; if you do not, we are sure you will be sorry that you did not. Our goods are put down to the lowest figure. We sell whole suits, according to quality, Improviug our Horses.

It will scarcely be denied that there is much room for improvement in our stock of horses used for general purposes. Pennsylvania has never been celebrated for superior stock in a good sense. We do not mean by this simply fast horses, but horses of character, equally good for the farm, the team or the road. Full blooded animals are usually too light for farming and teaming purposes, while many—very large proportion—of those used for these purposes are too heavy, clumsy and hard keeping. Is not this the general impression of intelligent farmers? We think it is.

We find as a rule, though there are frequent exceptions to it, that the imported cattle and sheep for our farms are not so well adapted to the substantial interests of the farmer, as judicious crossing with our best native breeds. It is so with horses in an even stronger sense. Within a year we have seen, in different parts of Pennsylvania, very fine horses, the product of crossing with the best mares selected from common country stock. And this is the point we desire to urge upon our farmers, and invite it to their particular attention.—We think it can be said with truth, that there is no class of men in our community who enjoy a fine horse more decidedly than our farmers; and this enjoyment is greatly enhanced when the animal is the product of their own stables.

A correspondent has occasionally discussed in our columns the propriety and profit of the propogating superior stock upon our farms, both in horses and cattle, showing that it costs no more to care or feed to raise a superior than inferior animal. The only difference is in the first colt, which is a matter of consideration compared to the advance price—sometimes two or three times the amount—which could be obtained for the common animal, to say nothing of the feeling of pride involved in the matter.

In our State, and especially in the eastern portion of it, there are thousands of excellent mares, which would produce from a well-chosen thorough bred stallion, a class of animals peculiarly adapted to this region, embracing action, strength, beauty and docility—qualities which most assuredly ought to recommend themselves to every farmer who feels a pride in his occupation which in its nobility has equal upon the face of the globe.

Stable Windows

Diseases of the eye in horses may, in many cases, be traced to the wretched custom of confining animals in dark stables. Any one who has been for some time in a dark room, knows what the effect is, of coming suddenly out into the bright sunlight. The horse is no less sensitive. Bring him suddenly out and you notice that he stumbles against almost everything that is in his way, and steps with the utmost uncertainty. This blundering is not the fault of the poor beast, but of his owner. The eye must gradually become accustomed to the change. The effect of the common mode of treatment cannot fail eventually to be disastrous to the eyesight. The detention in dark stables must have a deleterious influence upon the optic nerve, by weakening it. On return he feels it also. Objects are reflected upon a dull surface and they are not clearly discerned. The master wonders what is the matter. His horse used to be sure of foot, but now he stumbles entirely too frequently for his credit in the market. He used to be very gentle and could be warrented as altogether safe, but now he shies so abominable that several times he has very nearly upset the carriage, and the ladies of the house are afraid of him. He is losing character, and rapidly getting a bad name, when the poor brute is as deserving of confidence as ever. The animal would in fact be safer with absolute blindness than with imperfect vision, for it is constantly alarmed by objects which are seen indistinctly, whereas, in the former case, it trusts entirely to the bridle. Farmers will do well to make a note of this, and let their horses have light.

SWEET POTATO PUDDING—One pound of sweet potatoes boiled and mashed fine, six eggs well beaten, three quarters of a pound of sugar, the same of butter, a grated lemon rind, half a nutmeg, a wine glass of brandy or milk. Line the dish with paste. When it is baked, sprinkle the top with pulverized sugar,

It is advisable, in the construction of poultry houses, to use pine lumber the more pitch it contains the better, as this is offensive to poultry vermin.

For mange in calves, the New England Farmer recommends a solution of one ounce of carbonic acid in a pint of water. Apply with a sponge.

Buying Land.

It is much better to buy only a few acres of good land at a high price than to buy a large farm of run down land at a low price. It is also much better for an ordinary farmer to have a small farm than a large one. Because if he has a small piece of land, and puts as much manure upon it as he would on a large one, he will make more money than if he was compelled to scatter the same manure on a large farm.

As a rule, buy only a little land at first, Don't spend all your money for the land; leave some for the purpose of buying manure. In this way you will in a few years be able to buy more land if you want it.

If a man is poor and cannot raise sufficient money to start on, he had better borrow some; then, if he is an enterprising man and does not undertake too much, he will in a few years be able to clear himself of all debt.

Land, to be good for farming should not lay too high, nor yet too low. If it lays too high it is apt to dry out very soon, and crops cannot stand a long drout as wellas on low land. If it lays too low it will be swampy and clayey, and hard to get at in the spring on account of the moisture it contains. and it will be almost impossible to work to advantage at any time. A moderate sandy soil is probably the best for all practical purpose.

The best time to buy land is probably during the month of June. The crops are then growing, and an estimate may be made of the ability of the land to produce well.

If in ordinary year the wheat has a good growth, and good well filled heads, and a good green collor, and does not look yellow and puny, one may be sure that he has lighted on a good piece of ground. On the other hand, if it looks stunted, has short, poorly filled heads, and is of very un even length; if the corn looks yellow and shriveled without any apparent cause; if there is a poor growth of clover, and the meadows look rather bare, a man would better keep his fingers out of the pie,

Tying Up Horses.

A correspondent of the Germantown Telegraph severely condemns the practice indulged by too many of "tying up" horses to their stalls so closely that they cannot lie down and take rest like other animals. The evil and down-right cruelty of this practice must be obvious. Think of a poor horse hard driven or worked all day, compelled to stand on his legs all night without a bit of genuine rest.—This "tying up," remarks the writer, "is resorted to (by grooms as a general thing) to prevent the animal from lying down and thereby becoming dirty, which oftimes necessitates those gentlemen to an extra using of the curry comb and brush, a thing objectionable to lazy but not to considerate and humane men.

"Let horses when put in the stalls have sufficient length to their halters that they may if they choose lie down, one of the best of good effects from this treatment is that one will rarely ever see a horse so treated sprung in the knees. 'Tis true that some horses are not addicted to the good habit of lying down, and only at night when all is quiet will they seek rest; but this is because at some time those about them have disturbed them at or prevented them from lying down by shortening their halter, or, to use a technical term, "tying them up." It is not claimed that by letting a horse lie down when he chooses that he will be cured of sprung-knees, because a sprung horse is incurable; but it is claimed that if he is at all inclined to be weak in those parts, such rest will notthen even save them.

Get An Early Breakfast.

A bad custom prevalent in many families, especially among farmers, of working an hour or two before breakfast, attending to chores hoeing in the garden, cutting wood, mowing, ect. This is convenient on many accounts, but not conducive to health. The prevalent opinion is, that the morning air is the purest and most healthy and bracing; but the contrary is the fact. At no hour is the air more filled with dampness, fogs and miasmas than about sunrise. The heat of the sun gradually dissipates these miasmatic influences as the day advances. An early meal braces up the system against these external influences. Every one who knows the languor and faintness often experienced for the first hour in the morning, and that it is increased by exercise and the want of food. Probably the best custom would be, to furnish every member of the family especially those who labor out of doors, a cup of warm coffee, well mixed. immediately after rising from bed. Then let him attend to chores, or mowing, hoeing, ect., for an hour or two, while the teams are feeding and the breakfast preparing. They will feel better, and do more.—Agriculturist.

PAUL MILLER, of Columbus, Wis., has cured many cases of bloat in cattle, by placing a stick in the cow's mouth, and keeping it in place by strings fastened to the horns. This releases the imprisoned foul air from the distented stomach, and prevents more swelling.

A correspondent of the Iowa Homestead says he set, in 1840, two oak fence posts, from the sawn tree. The one set butt end down rotted off in 13 years; the other is as good as ever.

"GRANDFATHERS STOVE."

Our grandfather's stove, what a fun y old thing,
So deep, so wide and so tall;
Now the people would say, who are stylish and gay,
"It was only a hole in the wall."

It matters not what, it was pleasant to see
When night's mantle was flung over all;
Grandfather take down his good book and read
By the light from the hole in the wall.

As the sturdy young men rolled in the great logs,
They would laugh at each wintry squall,
Whilst grandma would sit on her old chair and knit
By the light from the whole in the wall.

The girls then wore home spun, and so did their beaux's,
For pride was a principle small;
And courting was done and hearts have been won
By the light from the hole in the wall.

The neighbors were friendly wherever they'd meet,
With a word of true kindness for all;
And joy was complete to hear voices so sweet
Ring round that old hole in the wall

In those days we know, folks cared not for show,
Of improvements knew nothing at all;
But 'twas really no joke, when great clouds of smoke
Rushed out from the hole in the wall.

But those days are now o'er, we shall know them no more,
And all those old fashions have flown;
Whilst the solemn and gay are coming each day
To purchase the famous "OLD HOME."

Coming not only in couples, but in scores, as hundreds of good and wise men and women have done before, to look upon this magnificent stove, which is acknowledged to be the best cooking stove of the age. Remember the place,

SEWING MACHINES.

AMERICAN BUTTON-HOLE

OVER-SEAMING AND SEWING MACHINE COMBINED.

MEDAL AWARDED AT THE PARIS EXPOSITION, 1867.

In directing attention to the celebrated COMBINATION BUTTON HOLE AND SEWING MACHINE, we feel fully warranted in claiming for it unquestionable superiority over all others as a Family Machine.—The Simplicity, Ease and Certainty with which it operates, as well as the uniform excellence of its work, certainly place it far in advance of any other similar invention of the age.

It is also the cheapest, intrinsically, as well as the best, since it is really two machines combined in one, (by a simple and beautiful mechanical arrangement never before accomplished by human ingenuity,) making either the Lock Stitch or Button Hole Stitch, as occasion may require. It is, at the same time, simple in construction, comparatively noiseless, easily understood, and, in a word, it combines with those advantages exclusively its own the most desirable qualities of all others, for it not only does every variety of sewing in a SUPERIOR MANNER, but in addition OVERSEAMS splendidly and makes beautiful BUTTON and EYELET HOLES in all fabrics. This is far beyond the capacity of any other machine.

The SPLENDID MECHANISM of this Machine, and the superior skill workmanship and materials employed in its construction, are a guarantee of accuracy, strength and durability and enable the company and its agents to Warrant Every Machine they sell to give entire satisfaction.

INSTRUCTIONS GIVEN ON THE MACHINE GRATUITOUSLY.

Lessons may be taken if desired with a view to test the Machine, or to become better acquainted with it before deciding to purchase. Samples of work will be furnished upon application at

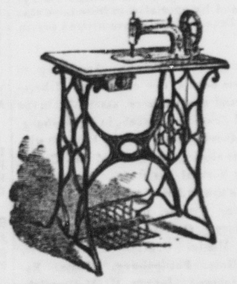
SEWING MACHINE.

THE SINGER SEWING MACHINE,



Among sewing machines, those made by the Singer Manufacturing Company, rank with the highest. Their manufacturing machines, have long been known as the best for manufacturing purposes But within the past few years, they have given special attention to the production of a

FAMILY MACHINE,

destined to win much favor in the

HOUSEHOLD.

The machine which they now offer is quiet light running, simple, fast, noiseless. Its accessories for

HEMMING, BRAIDING, BINDING,
QUILTING, TUCKING, CORDING,
FELLING, GATHERING,

are simple and easily understood. Its delicate though enduring and tireless muscles of iron and steel, do all the work noiselessly, better, and few will deny, "Faster than hand can do it." They urge those wishing to purchase a machine, to examine all the other manufactures before buying, as it will, for itself, overcome all the objections to the other machines that can be brought against it. Machines on hand for sale and exhibition, together with a full and complete assortment of

SILK, TWIST, LINEN, OR COTTON THREAD

LOSE'S LIVERY STABLE.

The undersigned having entered into partnership in the Livery Business, under the firm name of Isaac Lose & Son, adopt this method of informing the people of Bellefonte, and the public generally, that they will carry on the business in the Bairnside Stable. It is their determination to keep the very best and to hire them out at the most reasonable rates. Thanking for the kindness and favor they have received from the community in the past they will make it their chief object to merit the continuance of the same.
